Whenever any organization or business makes the decision to build a change something, it must first weigh the impact on people and the environment. The questions to be asked first would be: Will this project bring greater safety, ~~tranquility~~ ^{tranquility} and unity between people?? If the answer is not and nature a resounding "yes" then that project needs to be reevaluated or canceled.

acquisition of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railway Company by If the Canadian National Corporation cannot confidently answer "yes" to greater safety, tranquility and unity among the people and their environment then this acquisition should not occur. I ask you to consider this in the privacy of your own heart and not let greed or power stand in your way of making the right decision.
